A Blueprint for the Future

A building was never built, from the smallest cottage to the highest skyscraper, without a plan. Neither can a life be built without this all important blueprint.

We begin our three years in high school thinking over various plans. We find that some have to be discarded because they are impractical; others, just as appealing, would require more than we have the resources for; some we put back for future reference. While looking and thinking over these plans, we are ever gaining the knowledge that is necessary to make up the materials of the finished product—our future.

Wide sources of learning in various fields are offered in CHHS. Some students may graduate equipped with business or vocational training and go right on to their lives' works. Others have chosen and gained the background to go on to higher schools of learning. We may compare our instructors with the architects who help draw up the blueprint. They are here to help us select and obtain the best plan.

In this, our yearbook, we tell the story of the school where each student spends three years in work and play gathering the resources that make up his own BLUEPRINT FOR THE FUTURE.

Because she loves and understands CHHS students, we dedicate the 1952 Chieftain

To Mrs. Hettye Summers

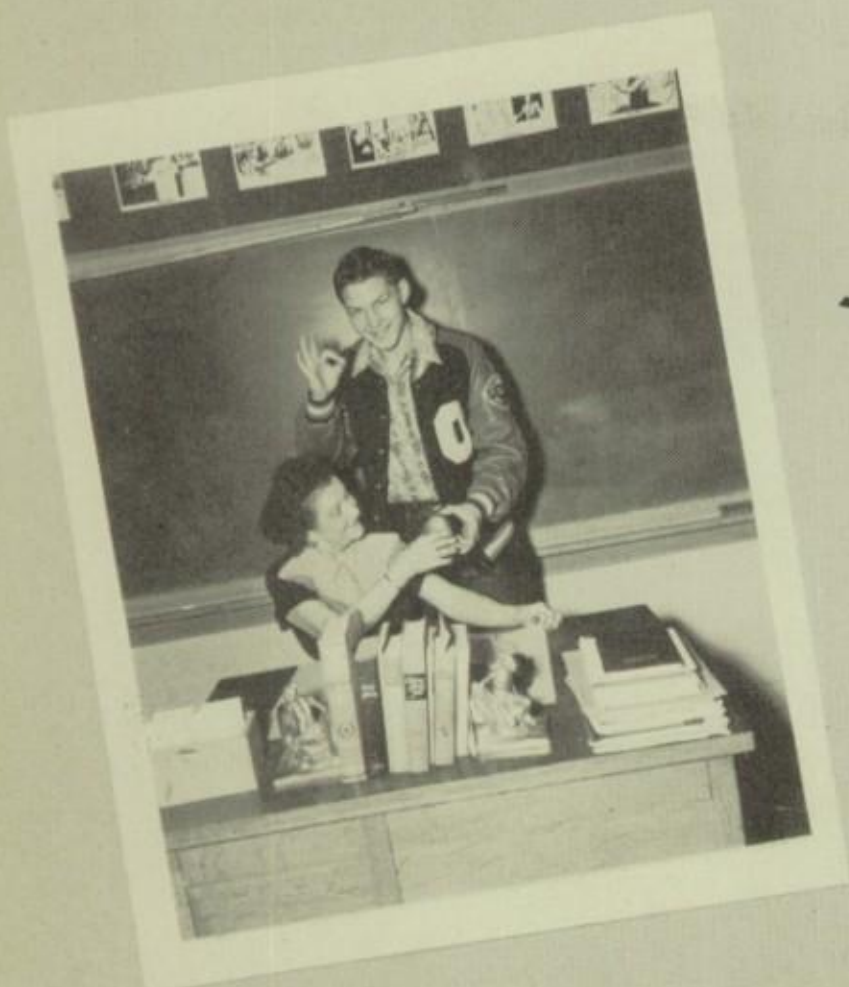

Guidance and care is needed to mold the future of each student who passes through the halls of CHHS. While each person is selecting his own blueprint for the future, he must have someone guiding and teaching him, for this is a task he cannot do alone.

Capitol Hill High School has been blessed with a teacher who has sent a great number of our students out into life better able to meet and understand it both spiritually and intellectually.

Never have we seen a teacher more anxious to help a student or more willing to listen to and understand his problems. In 1945 when the request for a class in Bible History was made by students, she took on the difficult task of teaching persons from all denominations and faiths and has done a remarkable job. She has helped create interest in the class by sponsoring a Bible History Club. In her many years of work with students she has taught mathematics, English, history, Bible History and Latin.

In recognition of this great person, we respectfully dedicate the 1952 Chieftain to Mrs. Hettye Summers.

This is CHHS

This is Capitol Hill High School. Here we worked and played, studied and learned, made our dates. For three years this was our home away from home. Outside is a beautiful, peaceful campus. Inside are the busy halls filled with the students who make CHHS what it is.

Here we truly planned a blueprint for our future.

Scenes dear to our hearts...

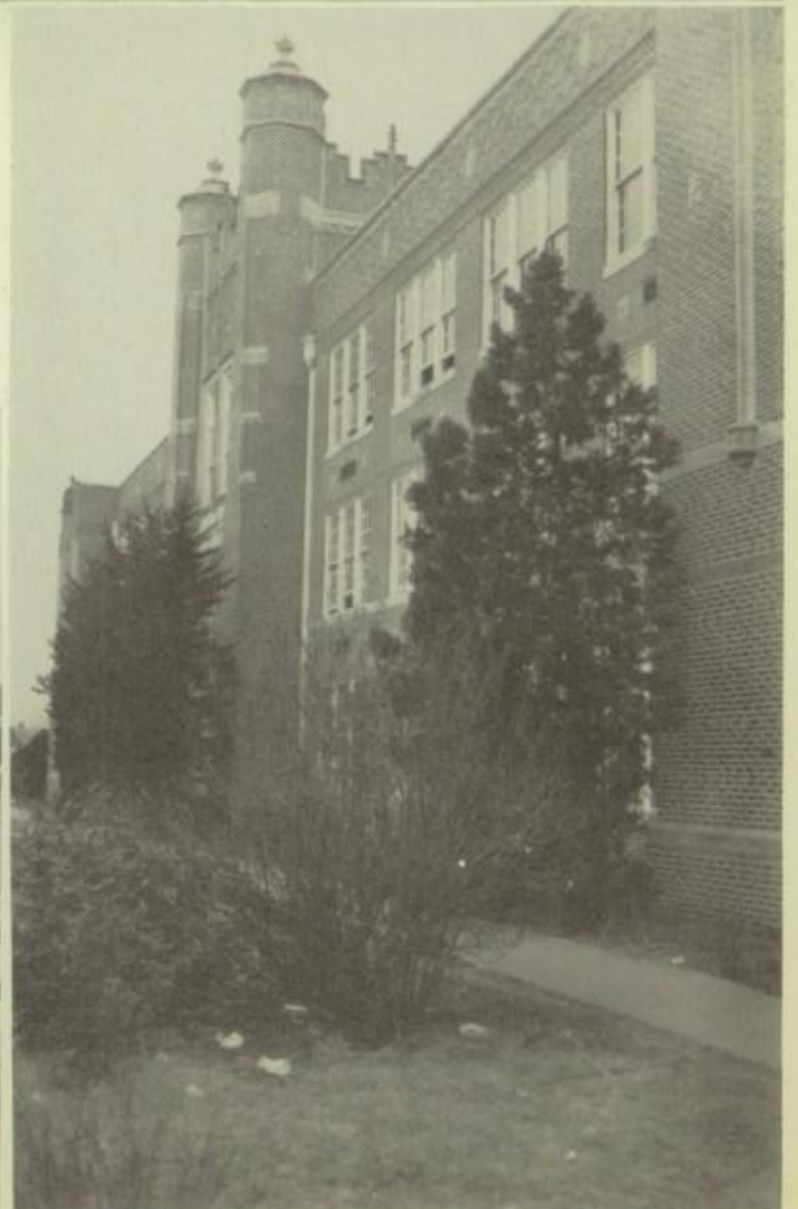

These are the treasured scenes of the school we love. The entrances shown were the doors through which we entered daily.

Upper picture: Entrance to vocational building
Right: East entrance to the gym
Lower right: North side of the building
Lower picture: Back of cafeteria

Here's to Alma Mater!
May she always be
In our hearts forever,
Standing proud to see
Her archways where we entered,
Her halls we loved so dear,
So here's a song to CHHS,
Alma Mater, Hail!

Always with an eye to the future.

Many girls enroll in cosmetology and learn the business well. On completion of this course, ready to start their career, will be Barbara Ann Dittmeyer, Lorene Pipkin, and Sue Blevins.

Cabinet-making is a skill not many are gifted with. Those who are make the most of the hours spent in this class. Left to right, Bruce Fowler, Mr. Donley, Gene McCollom, Vernon Hutchison and John Gilcrease.

A knack for gardening attracted Wallace Mohr, Johnny Losa, Bill Rowland, and Walter Hutchinson to the greenhouse. Many of the plants they grew were used for special occasions.

Others found enjoyment in putting the finishing touches to the products they had made. Left to right, Frank Ferguson, Jerry Dawson, and Billy Gracey.

The '52 Chieftain tells

Miss Kathryn Yowell, sponsor

Recipe for the 1952 Chieftain: Take one ounce of inspiration, fifteen ounces of perspiration and a dash of wit. Mix thoroughly with ceaseless work and a plentiful supply of patience.

No one could breathe a bigger sigh of relief than a staff member when all the yearbook has gone in — all the pictures have been taken, the paste-ups are finished, all the copy has been written and the proof has been read.

It wasn't all work, however. We had the time of our lives on our trip to the National Scholastic Press Conference in Topeka, Kansas; and the satisfaction of seeing our plans become reality in our yearbook was more than worth it all.

"Hey, Elsie! Where's your story for page one?"
"Listen, you brains, what's a shorter word for 'presents'? This headline's too long!"

Such phrases as these were heard more and more frequently as deadline time, which was about every other week, rolled around for the Redskin Arrow.

Writing stories wasn't the only thing that kept us busy, however. There were always exchanges to be sent out, money to be collected for ads and pictures to be taken.

Pencils, paper, paste and pride in each new edition of the paper were the tools of our trade in the staff room.

The drum major, Kenneth Black, claimed the honor . . . (of crowning Band Queen Wanda May in an assembly.)

"And ah says to Rastus" . . . (drawls Roger Triplitt to Don Musgraves in the minstrel pep assembly given by the Redskins.)

Western music invaded our auditorium . . . (in the form of Merl Lindsay and his Night Riders.)

Everyone worked hard

Above: We satirized some of our classes . . . (in the Chieftain pep assembly.)

"The Shooting of Tommy Murphy" . . . (was the story in back of the Knobberette pep assembly.)

Girls swoon as Biddie croons . . . (in the school play, "Sing for Your Supper": Janie Cook, Wendell Biddie, Mickie Vargas. Seated: Valta Canning.)

Perry Mason makes with the introductions . . . (in a scene from "The Case of the Sulky Girl," Junior Class play: Jeaneen Gers, Dean Tesney, Carolyn Cantwell.)

on plays and assemblies

"It's surprising what a little make-up will do" . . . (says Wanda May as she and Beverly Fulkerson apply a little of the same to Wendell Biddie, the mystery crooner).

"Watch the birdie," said the cameraman . . . (to the "Sing for Your Supper" cast members: Standing, left to right: June Cosby, Barbara Gentry, Janie Cook. Seated: Alla Lou Ward, Robert Baldwin.)

Arguing—Always arguing . . . (that's Edward Norton played by Duane McCampbell and Perry Mason enacted by Dean Tesney in the "Sulky Girl" play.)

Our days were busy!

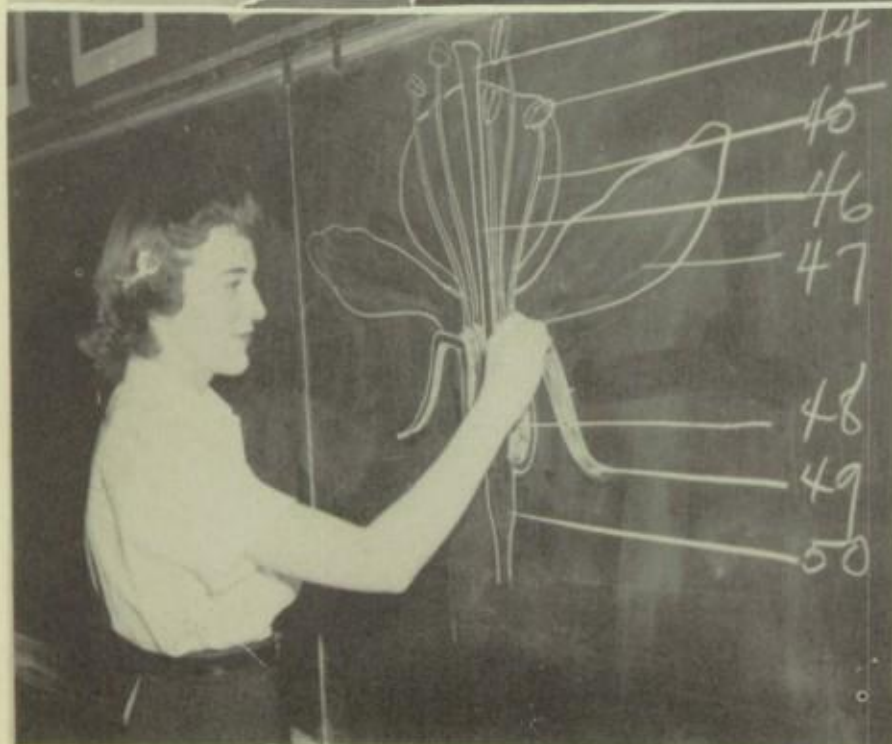

Top to bottom:

The hardest part of any student's day—getting up . . . (Ina Ray Bond manages to look pretty and pleasant about it, though.) "Where COULD that bus be?" . . . (an oft-heard quotation of any student who doesn't own a car or live within walking distance of school; as voiced by a group of CHHS students: Phyllis Cox, Don Alexander, Don Scott, Joel Kendrick.)

When it's about ten seconds before time for the tardy bell, this is what you do . . . (Bill Everett makes that last minute dash for class.)

There's always SOMETHING to stand in line for . . . (in this case it's cokes and sandwiches during the noon rush.)

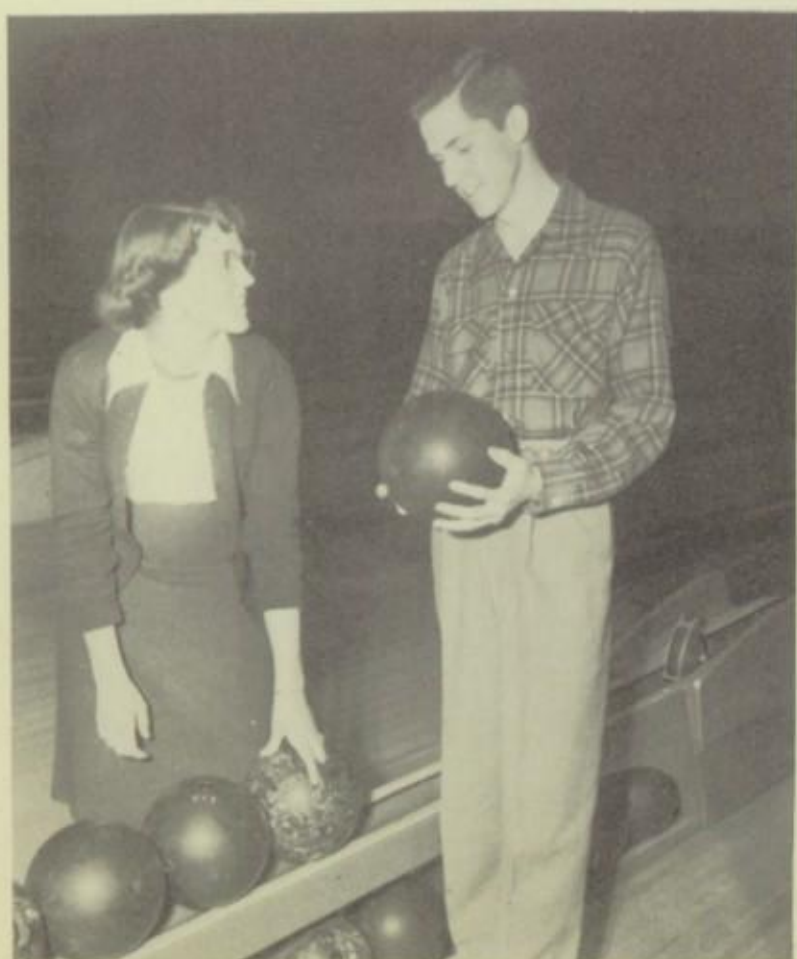

Our dates were fun!

Top to bottom: Nothing's better than home-made fudge, and with two such pretty helpers, the cook is bound to succeed . . . (Jimmie Lyon, Kaye Donna Wood and Mary Quillin.)

You can almost hear the strains of "The Skater's Waltz" in the background — Let's hurry! . . . (Joy Broadway helps Pat Countryman with her skates.)

"And this is the way you hold the ball when you're trying for a strike" . . . (demonstrates Danny Recer to Pat Thorpe.)

We enjoyed class activities,

"I do" . . . (A mock wedding was staged by the etiquette class. Here Ann Terry, Jimmy Stacy and Billy Caywood take part in the ceremony.)

"Santa Claus is coming" . . . (Loretta Collinsworth, Catalina Urenda and Glenn Hall kept busy decorating their homeroom Christmas tree.)

"An interview with Dale Robertson!" . . . (The thrill of the year came when Margaret Earp and Carolyn Clark interviewed movie star Dale Robertson.)

"This should be enough" . . . (Charles Callum, Elmo Brown, Betty Geurin and Edna Afinow fill a basket for some needy family.)

"Now turn on the key's" . . . (familiar words of driver's training instructor, Jack Anderson, to student Charles Lake.)

met friends between classes

"Nothing but a tardy bell could make me leave you" . . . (remarks Bob Bell to Mary Moore.)

"Ummmm good" . . . (muses Ernest Bellar as Larry Hannah waits patiently for his turn in the lunch line.)

"What did you say his name was?" . . . (Talking between bites are Marilyn Deering, Jackie Allen, Lorilee Bagley and Martha Ann Robbins.)

"Next" . . . (was the word these unidentified girls waited for on a sunny but cold day.)

Proofreading for student directories . . . (proved to be quite a problem. Proofreaders are Janet Webb, Frances Nolen and Charlene Taylor.)

Chieftain Capers featured

Chieftain Capers of 1952—our Show of Shows—featured "Stars of Tomorrow." With likeable Danny Williams as Master of Ceremonies and hard-working Sara Cohen as producer, the show played to a packed auditorium of spectators who agreed that the performance was nothing short of spectacular.

1. Two of the dancers in "A Night in Paris" were Loriee Bagley and Bill Fallwell. 2. Fritzie Erwin, talented sophomore, proved her ability as a singer. 3. Laughs were plentiful when Mr. Albert Ossenkop appeared as "the mean little boy." 4. A clever skit was performed by Dickie Akers. 5. Three pretty maidens who sang "Easter Parade" were Delma Montgomery, Sue Scantlan and Margaret Thomas. 6. Faculty members, Miss Kathryn Yowell and Mr. Joe Dabney brought tears to the audience as "The Villian Still Pursued Her." 7. "Siamese School Days" are not at all like ours . . . as proved Margaret Sue Thomas and Mike Miller.

"Stars of Tomorrow"

1. Bob Hooker makes Danny Williams a life member of the Chieftains as he presents him with a Chieftain jacket. 2. Miss Sara Cohen, director of the Capers, makes plans for the coming show. 3. The 1951 Chieftain Capers King, Gerald Murray, crowns 1952 Queen, Pauline Winters, as Bill Rowland, 1952 King, and Larie Heldenbrand, 1951 Queen, look on. 4. Bobby Breaux sings the praises of Paris to Texan, Mary Lou McMillan. 5. Donald Crew gapes at Jewel Lane as she sings "I'm Just a Girl Who Can't Say No." 6. Performing at the opera as ballet dancers are Mr. John Pryor, Mr. C. B. Speegle and Mr. Ray Vaughn. 7. Known for their operatic voices are Mr. A. D. Jacobson, Mr. John Smith and Mr. L. H. Bengtson. Mr. Smith was the heroine; Mr. Jacobson, the villain, and Mr. Bengtson, the hero!

It was quite a show! A word of thanks should go to Mr. Bart Ward and his commercial art classes who had charge of the scenery and all the other teachers and students who worked long hours to make 1952 Chieftain Capers a success.

We went to every dance and

Even practicing for a formal dance can be fun if you dress for the part . . . (Upper left: Spud Hux and Loriee Bagley.)

And for THIS they won a prize! . . . (Center picture: Jerry Lowry and Delores Lewis show off the nifty socks they sported at one of our hops.)

Some people are never satisfied with the conventional way of doing things . . . (Lower right: Tommy Pearson takes notice of the very UNconventional patch worn by Jeanette Richardson at the Knobberette jeans dance.)

took full advantage of Leap Year

There's only one time a girl can legally ask for a date—and look at the attitude of a member of the opposite sex . . . (Upper right: Buddy Henderson and Marilyn Moyer.)

We all had a wonderful year!

The school year 1951-52 was a definite success at CHHS. Many outstanding students helped to make it so. On this page are pictured a few of those students who were always willing to work "over-time" planning extra-curricular activities which helped to make the year a memorable one for all.

In football we copped mid-state honors

For the third straight year, the Capitol Hill Redskins went into the football campaign as a favorite to take home some state honors.

Although they had lost all their starters from their 1950 state finalist team except big Floyd Brown, the expert had seen the same thing happen at the end of 1949, and figured that Capitol Hill could do the near impossible two years in a row.

At first it appeared the Redskins might do just that, as the big forward wall and the speedy, but inexperienced backs scampered to a 13-2 win over the Seminole Chieftains.

But continuing their yearly out-of-state treks, the Hillmen under new head mentor C. B. Speegle, ventured into Texas and lost to the Lone Star gridsters twice, once at Lubbock 29-13, and at Odessa 48-0.

When they returned to inter-state competition, it was on a wet, muddy turf at Taft stadium that the Redskins, with Bobby Burr replacing the injured Donald Reed at quarterback, out-splashed the Classen Comets 18-0.

The following week the Redskins ventured eastward to Shawnee where they handed out their second straight shutout job, this time 26-0 over the hometown Wolves.

Completing their road schedule, the Redskins pounded Enid 33-13 before a near capacity crowd at Plainsmen Field.

When the wandering Hillmen stored their traveling togs and settled down for a four game home stand, Northeast fell in the opener 39-0.

Central followed, and in the year's biggest upset, the inspired Cardinals dumped the heavily favored Redskins 25-20.

With the mid-state football conference resting in a two-way tie between Capitol Hill and Norman, the Redmen warmed up for the showdown battle with the Tigers by taking outclassed Southeast comparatively easy, 39-6.

The final week of action found Norman invading the confines of Redskin stadium, and after 60 minutes of grueling action, they went home beaten by Speegle's charges, 18-0.

The win over Norman gave the Redskins a tie for the conference lead, but it was the first time in almost half a decade that the Hillmen had been forced to share football honors with anyone within their district.

Winning or losing, the basketball team

Capitol Hill's rampaging basketballers started at the top and finished the same way. In their opening three games, they took the championship trophy in their own invitational tournament by defeating Central, Shawnee and Northeast.

After winding up third in the Borger Texas invitational, they opened regular season play and proceeded through a very tough 20 game schedule to gain a tie for mid-state basketball honors.

When the schedule was completed the statistics showed that no team during the entire season had held an edge over the Warriors. Several had tied at one game to one but no one managed to defeat the Hillmen in both games of a home and home series.

The Redskins also pulled down individual honors to go with their team accolades. On the all city roundball squad, Capitol Hill placed Bob Burr and Don Soergel on the first five, and landed Donald Reed on the second quintet.

With eleven returning lettermen

Eleven returning lettermen from the 1951 state quarter-finalist squad, plus a new coach to direct the diamond activities, was the scene presented to the Capitol Hill student body as the 1952 baseballers shoved off their campaign against Norman March 18.

The ever-important mound crew was manned by four right-handers and one southpaw. Of the five, three were returning lettermen. The three right-handers include Chuck Page, brilliant curve-balling sophomore who lettered as a freshman; Bob Shipman, a newcomer from Crooked Oak; Lanky Tom Taylor, up from the "B" squad, and Jerry Gill, who divides duty between the hill and the outfield. The southpaw is "the little man with the big pitch," Tommy Wade.

Receiving the slants of the five hurlers were returnee, Richard Martin, and sophomore rookie, Willie Morse.

The infield from the '51 crew was kept intact with Bob Burr remaining at first, Don Soergel back at second, Jim Davis holding down the shortfield position and Buzzy Cleveland occupying the hot corner position.

The picket line was left up to the talents of Don Demeter and Bill Davidson, two returning lettermen; Billy Green, and Glenn Plasters, another promoted "B" squader.

Backing up in the utility rolls were Curtis Turner, an infielder from Anadarko, and Wayne Craig, another candidate up from "B" ball.

Capitol Hill State Champion thinclads again boasted strength in the relays and pole vault. Berry Mashburn was strong in the pole vault and also ran in the 880 and 440 yard relay team with teammates Bob Pyle, Donald Raper and Robert Douglas.

In the distance races Capitol Hill held its own with Donald Ladd, Parker Bond and Dean Keltner. Ladd and Bond ran last winter at OU in the cross country. Ladd placed second and Bond placed sixth helping to give Capitol Hill third place. This spring Ladd ran the mile; Bond and Keltner ran the half mile.

A minor sport — a major tennis team

Bob West

Year in and year out one of the strongest minor sports at Capitol Hill is the Earl Stewart-coached tennis squad.

This year the Redskins' net crew returned three lettermen, and just for good measure added a former star from Ada high school to bolster the attack.

The three returning lettermen from last year's city and mid state Champions are Gene Land, a senior captain and number one man, Bob West, a solid swinging junior, and Barry Walraven, an easy going junior, who, like West, will form the center of the 1953 team due to their one more year of eligibility.

The Ada addition was state and nationally prominent Bob Etheridge, who is a senior.

And a strong team of golfers

One of the few organizations in the Capitol Hill athletic program to boast a full team of returning lettermen is C. B. Speegle's defending state champion golf crew.

Headed up by two four-year lettermen, Ab Justice and Orville Moody, the linksmen also have added strength from a couple of one-year monogram men, Eddie Lookabaugh and Earl Dean Edwards.

With thirty-five students enrolled in the sixth hour teams class, Miss Martha Cox and Mrs. Ruth Wilson found ample talent for the various athletics the girls participate in. This year they captured two titles, the city singles ping pong championship and the city fieldball championship. They failed to retain volley ball honors from the previous year.

The sports the CHHS teams vied in were fieldball, volley ball, baseball, swimming, tennis, ping pong and golf. Betty Fowlkes, who served as president of the Girls' O Club, was one of the outstanding girl athletes but at mid term became ineligible to enter into competition because of an eligibility law placed on girls' sports.

Four general physical education classes were kept busy learning to swim, as well as learning the various fields of competition the teams class enters.

Something new this year for the advanced swimming students was learning some of the many swimming formations and stunts. They perfected these stunts during their spare class time and presented a water ballet.

Each gym class was divided into six squads who played a round-robin tournament in volley ball, ten pins, kick ball and deck tennis. This gave them the opportunity to learn the games as they play. Their competition was stiff, for from these groups will be chosen the teams for next year.

Outstanding girl athletes showed

With five city high schools serving as competition the CHHS softball team came through the season with a better than average percentage. Pauline Winter, who plays for the Sooner Queens, and petite Latane Purcell, who dominated the mound, were the decisive factors in many games. Their seven team-mates proved to be one of the most outstanding combinations Capitol Hill has ever had.

In the city tournament, the softball team literally rolled over everyone. After shutting out Southeast 17-0, they defeated Central 18-2. When Northeast won out over Classen, the northsiders were in the finals with CHHS. Capitol Hill then came out on top with a 25-6 score.

J. C. McNutt

One of the most popular non-school sponsored athletic programs involving Capitol Hill students is the Oklahoma City golden gloves program.

Quite a few enter every year, and ever-so-often a southside entrant will earn state recognition. The two most recent, pictured on this page, are J. C. McNutt and Joe Goode.

McNutt was this year's top contender, as he took down district honors in the 126-pound weight class, and advanced to the quarter finals of the state tournament.

Goode was the top scrapper last year, but this year had the misfortune to lose out before going very far in the all-important state tournament.

Some of the other leather swingers who entered district competition this year were H. J. Hanlan, Tom Taylor and Everett Nunn.

The student representatives achieved much and received high recognition this year. The new method of election which our Student Council established was broadcast throughout Korea on the "Voice of America."

The Student Council has several committees which spent many hours of hard work devoted to the task of making Capitol Hill Senior High a better school and one that we can all be proud of.

Among the many jobs they accomplished; they edited and sold student directories, sold valentine telegrams, set up car registrations, improved our election code and constitution, and created a better school relationship with other city high schools by attending the intra-city Student Council and working out difficulties and problems that involved all the senior high schools in the city.

Singing for P-TA meetings, at the Municipal Auditorium, for school assemblies and for various gatherings has kept the choir pretty busy in 1951-52.

The choir sang twice at the Municipal Auditorium. With the other high school choirs of the city and the Oklahoma City Symphony. First was the huge Christmas Pageant made up of all the senior high choirs in the city. The second time was the Spring Festival.

At Thanksgiving the choir went to Stillwater where several choirs were gathered for the day. They also helped with our Thanksgiving Assembly.

Small groups of the choir sang for several different occasions. Some students sang at an all Rodgers and Hammerstein program with the Okla. City Symphony. Others have sung at memorial dedications.

The big program of the choir is the annual Extravaganza held in April. This year the Extravaganza was divided into three parts featuring music of three periods of years, 1849, 1920, and 1952.

Lots of rhythm, high stepping, and fancy twirling combined to make our majorettes a wonderful asset to the CHHS band. Regardless of the weather, our twirlers were always there, lending eye-catching color and lively pep to football games, parades and pep rallies.

When our twirlers put their heads together something is bound to happen—this year the result was an emblem in the shape of a majorette to be worn on their sweaters.

We thought our swing band was tops

Row 2: Maribelle Cavender, Lois Jackson, Patsy Hines, Bob East, Jimmie Dell, Bob West, Miss Helen Biggers, sponsor.

Row 3: John Horn, Parker Bond, Jimmy Reid, J. B. East.

Field trips, science classes, and projects for the city and state science fairs kept the Sigma Chi Iota busy this year.

Some of the members did notable work for the science fairs and Don Davis won honorable mention in the nationwide Westinghouse Talent Search. Don made a very capable president. Other officers were Parker Bond, vice-president; John Thompson, secretary; Elmo Brown, treasurer and Eva Benson, reporter.

In order to become a member of the Sigma Chi Iota, one must have had at least one year of science, maintaining a B plus average. The purpose of the club is to encourage activities for the science fairs.

The club toured the OU science department and made plans to attend the A&M science open house.

"The Mystery of the River Boat," a thrilling serial, was shown and sponsored by the Mu Alpha Theta, honorary math club, to make money for their annual initiation banquet in the spring.

Sam Price served as their president, Victor Schuelein as vice president, and Carolyn Allen and J. B. East as secretary-treasurers.

To become a member of the club, a grade average of two "A's" and a "B" must be made and one must continue taking math throughout his highschool years.

The club was among the most active and most prosperous in school.

The industrious members of the Art Club have had fun as well as accomplishing much this year. All expressed their art talent in different ways. Some projects were ladies' hand bags, leather belts and wooden, metal and ceramic jewelry.

One social was held each month, which included dinners at Alamo Plaza and at the home of Miss Dorothy Mayes, sponsor; picnics and parties.

The members also sent money to buy the needy Korean children clothes.

Royalty

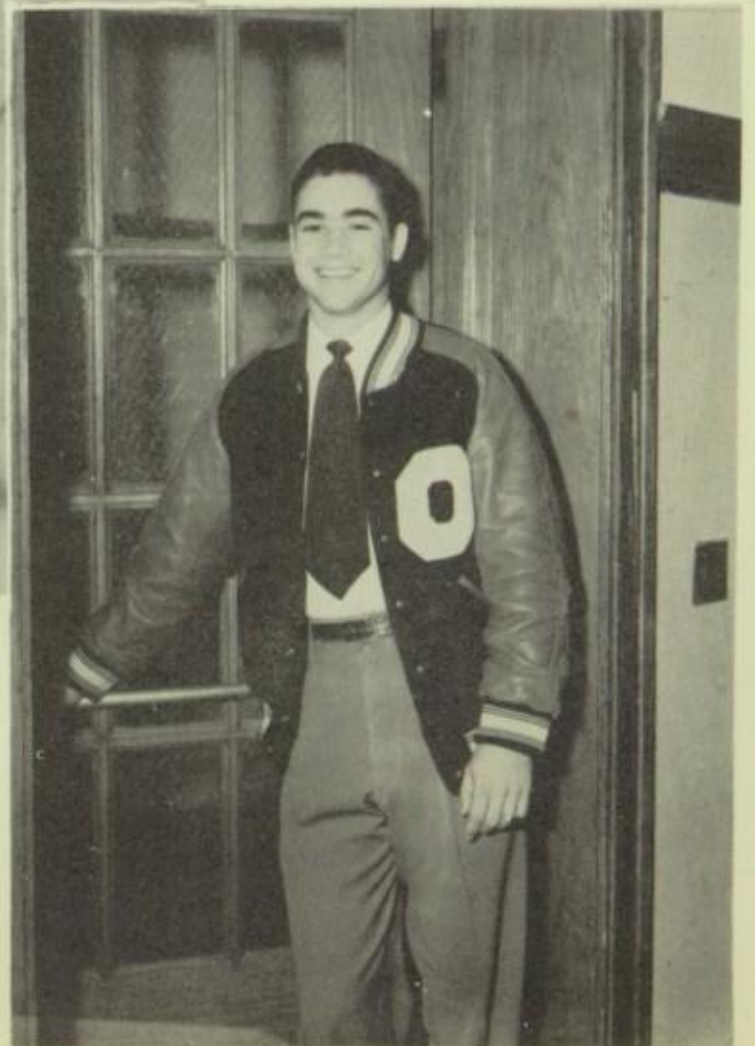

Mr. Chieftain

BENNY NALL

Playing halfback on the football team and running track were just two of the many activities of handsome and popular Benny Nall, who graduated at mid-term.

Miss Chieftain

GAIL BAILEY

Gail Bailey, who received more nominations for the Miss Chieftain title than any other candidate, won the election by an overwhelming majority because of her friendliness and attractiveness.

Football Queen

JANICE MCAFEE

Janice McAfee's peaches and cream complexion and sparkling eyes made her an instantaneous hit with the football players, who elected her to reign over them.

Baseball Queen

BEVERLY OLIVER

In spring a baseball player's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of—a queen. This year's choice, Beverly Oliver, is cute in anything from jeans to a formal.

FFA Sweetheart

CAROLYN ALLEN

Twinkling brown eyes and a ready smile are the first things you notice when you meet vivacious Carolyn Allen, FFA Sweetheart.

Band Queen

WANDA LEE MAY

A nice personality plus high scholastic ability plus three years experience as a clarinetist in our band equal this year's band queen, Wanda Lee May.

Chieftain Princess

PAT RICE

Diminutive Pat Rice, the pride of the Chieftains, displayed enough pep at the games for a gal twice her size, yet always managed to look fresh as a daisy.

Redskin Sweetheart

PATSY HINES

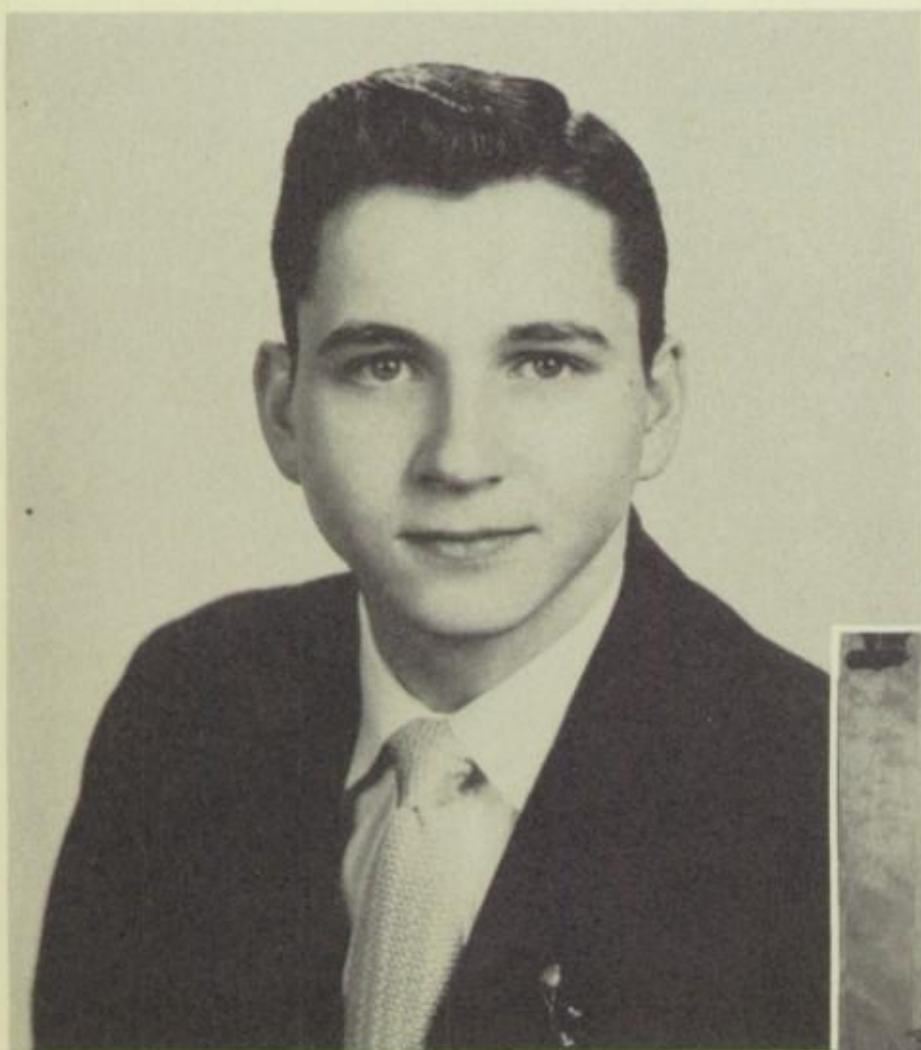

"Quiet," "dependable," and "efficient" are adjectives used to describe charming Redskin Sweetheart, Patsy Hines, who is a straight "A" student.

Knobberette Buddy

DON SOERGER

The hearts of one hundred fifty Knobberettes belong to tall, congenial Don Soergel, who plays end on the football team, forward in basketball, and second base on the baseball squad.

Ki Yi King

JOE WELCH

Good-natured Joe Welch always receives a rousing cheer from his loyal KiYis, whether he's playing halfback on the football team or guard on the basketball squad.

Key Club Queen

GEORGIA RAY

The honor of being the first queen of the Capitol Hill Key Club belonged to beautiful Georgia Ray of the glamorous long brown tresses.

Classes

Heading the largest Senior Class in the history of CHHS are officers Don Thompson, vice-president; Sue Corley, secretary, and J. B. East, president.

The various activities of the Senior Class are directed by five sponsors; left to right, Mr. Joe Dabney, Miss Juanita Bittle, Mrs. Alice Chesher, Mr. O. R. Williamson and Mr. Al Ossenkop.

Being an officer or sponsor of a Senior Class is no easy job, but ours proved not only capable, but outstanding. They planned and directed various activities such as the senior play, commencement exercises, baccalaureate services, senior breakfast and the senior day assembly.

Working with committees, they made the Senior Class click and guided it through its last year at CHHS.

Nothing can be nicer than talking to pretty girls on a pretty day. Seniors Don Davis and Jimmy Turner make the most of their free moments by talking to Beverly Mays and Delores Lewis.

Now that our three years at Capitol Hill are completed, the graduating class of '52 will be separated. Wherever we go we will take with us the memories of everything we have done these past three years.

Looking back over three years we remember many things — like the time we elected Bobby Hooker, Patsy Hines and Pat Eubanks to lead us through our sophomore year. Then in our junior year again we elected Bobby Hooker to lead us. Gail Bailey and Bettye Selman served with him.

Like all junior classes, we gave a prom for the seniors and presented a junior play.

Frank Moore, Student Council president, was elected governor of Oklahoma for a day. He was a good leader with a likeable disposition.

As a whole our highschool years have been filled with fun and the desire to do better each year. We have tried to make a blueprint for our future.

That day of days has finally arrived! Mike Miller and Mazell Suggs beam with pride as they clutch that long-awaited diploma in their hands.

Senior committees worked hard

Breakfast Committee: Wanda May, chairman; Bob Scrutchins, Rita Blevins, Myrna McCollum.

Commencement Committee: Carol Sue Davis, chairman; Pat Pastusek, Valta Canning.

Coke Party: Juanita Porter, Sam Price, Mildred Harris.

Baccalaureate Committee: Betty Jo Cogdill, Carl Holder, Georgann Leslie, chairman.

Senior Play Committee: Pollye Hall, Arthur Sudik, Beverly Fulkerson, chairman; Sue Corley.

Senior Assembly: Bettye Selman, chairman; Peggy Zumwalt, Myrtle Beaty, Nancy Owens, Barbara Gibson, J. B. East.

The Junior-Senior Prom was a memorable affair and a huge success.

As we reached the halfway mark

In 1953 will graduate this class of juniors, 483 strong. As sophomores they contributed talent; as juniors they have made leaders.

These juniors have done much for the school as a whole. Junior, Bill Phillips was chosen Rainbow Beau, and Norma Kaye Zink was chosen DeMolay Sweetheart.

Now we are well on our way to becoming seniors. Carolyn Bumpas, Gerald Dickson and Beverly Jines are looking forward to their final year at CHHS.

Sophomores chose Corinne Miner as president to lead the baby class. Charles Poor served as vice president and Marlene Gates made a very efficient secretary.

Helping us along throughout the school year were our sponsors: Miss Helen Biggers, Mrs. Bessie Kelly, Mrs. Frances Garlick, Mrs. Adaline Ball, W. L. Conner, Soce Lewis and W. O. Hawkins.

As Sophomores we started on our way

A new school and a clean record. These sophomores eagerly enter the doors of CHHS for the first time. They are Lyndall Linder, Barbara Thompson, Frances Fielder, Harold Harvey and Ogureta Harrocks.

This Class of '54 started off big by electing the first girl president in four years.

Fritzi Erwin made a big hit her first year at Capitol Hill as she sang in many assemblies which gained recognition to this sophomore class.

Outstanding in the field of sports were Chuck Page, Benton Ladd, Billy Richey, Charles Hilterbran, Hubert Reid and Glenn Plasters.

Suzanne Divine was outstanding in the field of dramatics.

Aren't they pretty? Marlene Osteen, Ruth Ahsmuhs, Kay Cozby and Shirlee Doan, Ki Yi pledges, seem to be getting a big kick out of entertaining the upper classmen.

Remembering we were just Sophomores

Sophomores Don Reid and Carolyn Rosebrook seem to be studying diligently that old familiar English workbook.

"Oh to be a senior," moan Doris Woosley and Dale Lightner, "they get by with anything." Leslie Woosley's doodling on the board seems to prove this.

When you have to study, it might as well be in comfort, agree LaVoyd Williams, Wilma Arthurs, Barbara Snodgrass and Harold Barney.
